

GiGL Greenspace Information for Greater London CIC
the capital's environmental records centre

GREATERLONDONAUTHORITY

Biodiversity and Planning: Introduction to a new research project

Eleni Foui

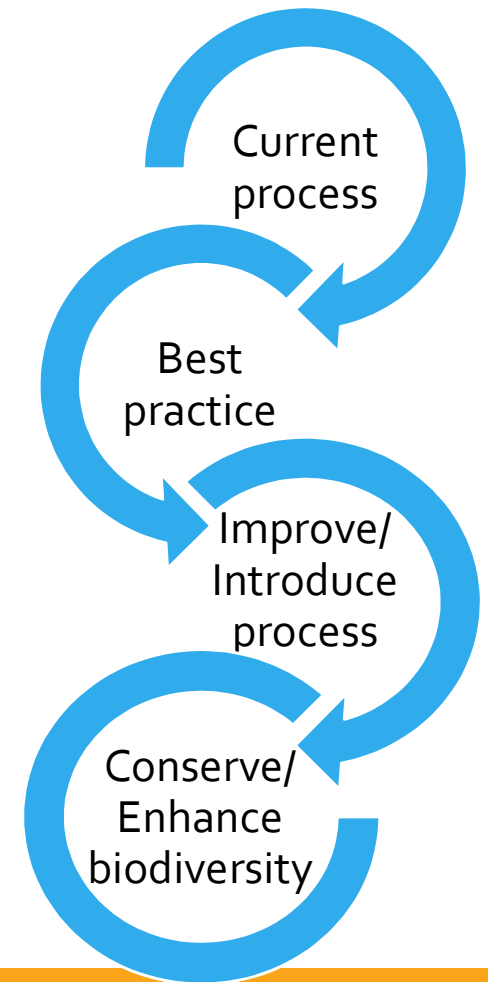

Biodiversity and Planning

- National Planning Policy Framework, London Plan, London Environment Strategy
- 18% of planning applications in a one year period in London should have been supported by a biodiversity data search.
- Only 1% of validated applications were accompanied by a data search. (Planning for Biodiversity, Mayor of London, 2016)

New Research project

- How biodiversity data is currently used in the planning process at different Local Authorities in London
- Identify best practice approaches
- Aim: To improve/introduce process
- Achieve positive outcomes for biodiversity through planning

Thank you

Any questions, comments or inputs

please talk to me

or write to me at Eleni.Foui@gigl.org.uk

